BRODHEAD CITY WENT DRY

Edgerton Carried by Nine Votes—Clinton Also Wet—Town of Rock Dry.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Beloit, Wis., April 6.—The majority for license was only 39 and the saloon men are shuddering. A lot of Fairbanks-Morse shop men declared last night that the city will surely go dry next year. The total vote on the license question was 2,081, which was 357 less than last year. The drys gained 56 votes and the wets lost 300. The majority for license last year was 318.

The temperance workers are well satisfied with the results. The election was a fine one as far as the conduct of men at the polls was concerned. There was little challenging and no evidence that anyone was attempting to interfere with the plans of the voter. Several antisaloon men are better pleased with the situation than they would have been should the city have been carried by a small majority.

Major Cunningham's majority over L. H. Parker was 86 and the Parker men were stunned over the outcome. Mr. Parker openly announced himself in favor of license and Cunningham, while a license man, kept still publicly and this had much to do in the result. J. D. Wickham was reelected treasurer by a majority of 86 over E. A. Howell.

The surprise of the election in the wards was the election of Ed. Rose for alderman in the fifth ward over Alderman Fred Leinhardt. In the second ward and John Roldan defeated Alderman Frank Behmer in the fourth. The others were elected without opposition. The complexion of the common council will remain the same as last year.

The town of Beloit surprised people by electing B. E. Moseley as supervisor over John Jones, the nominee.

The town of Newark elected B. D. Hansen supervisor without opposition.

Edgerton.

Edgerton, Wis., April 6.—The election held here yesterday goes on record as the hottest and most bitterly contested one ever held here. The fight was on the liquor question and each faction was represented at the polls by an attorney. Many votes were challenged on both sides and the battle ended with nine votes in favor of license. James M. Conway, non-partisan, was elected mayor, whom, together with two new aldermen, it can be said to be an antisaloon council. The same three supervisors were reelected without opposition. The total number of votes cast was 614.

Town of Rock.

Afton, April 6.—By a majority of one vote, the citizens of the township of Rock rendered a verdict against the open saloon yesterday and for another year. Afton will remain in the dry column. The total vote on the license proposition was 175, of which 88 were against and 87 for license. On the town ticket the democrats and republicans divided honors, the former electing the three supervisors and the town clerk while the republicans elected the treasurer, three justices of the peace and three constables. The democratic nominees and the vote received by each are as follows: Supervisors—Chairman, Fred Rehfeld, 97; east side, M. C. Flory, 92; town clerk, Edward J. Tracy, 92; treasurer, Dan Connell, 89; assessor, George Blank, 72; justices, Joseph Williams, 83; John J. Bushfield, 81; James Connell, 85; constables, Dan Eunis, 85; Ed. Podewell, 85.

On the republican ticket the candidates and the vote received by each are as follows: Supervisors—Chairman, G. N. Goldsmith, 81; east side, George Waterman, 78; west side, Guy Taylor, 80; assessor, George Blank, 72; justices, Joseph Williams, 83; John J. Bushfield, 77; the latter having been on both tickets and with consequently no opposition.

The result on license is very gratifying to a majority of the residents here in Afton, who are decidedly opposed to having another saloon opened in the village, for they have not forgotten the unsavory reputation which the town gained by reason of a former experience, a reputation which any village without police protection must face if it votes for license.

In Clinton.

Clinton, April 6.—Clinton was carried by the wets yesterday by 38 majority. Every effort possible was made by the drys to stay the progress of the wet vote but it was impossible to stop it.

Town of Plymouth.

Hancock, April 6.—The following offices were elected Tuesday: H. S. Stevens, chairman; A. F. Beding, F. O. Fossom, side supervisors; M. E. Ellington, clerk; H. T. Harper, assessor; then, Hatton, treasurer. There was 121 votes cast for no license and 122 for license.

Brodhead.

Brodhead, April 6.—Brodhead goes dry by 107 majority with the following city council: Mayor, C. B. Miller; treasurer, W. O. Green; assessor, P. T. Moore; justices, C. E. Stilman and O. P. Smith; constables, Nels McElroy, with a tie between J. W. Gardner and Thos. O'Conor; first ward alderman, W. S. Bradley; and L. J. Stahr for supervisor; second ward alderman, L. E. Ward and Bur Sprague. Local option was the issue and although light vote was polled the drys carried the day.

Albany Wet.

Albany, April 6.—The village of Albany went wet by seven votes at the election on Tuesday.

In Walworth.

Sharon, April 6.—The village of Sharon went wet by twenty-seven votes. Delavan and Darien, both former dry towns, were also carried by the wets.

SEVERAL CHANGES
IN COUNTY BOARDShown by the Returns That Have Thus Far Been Received From the County at Large.

Incomplete returns from the county show several changes in the make-up of the incoming county board of supervisors. H. B. Moseley will represent the town of Beloit in place of John J. Jones. John Sherman will represent Fulton in place of U. G. Miller. Sheldahl Valley has chosen T. A. Tolleson as its representative in place of Archie Swann. The third ward of Evansville will send Dr. C. M. Smith in place of H. L. Austin. C. J. Stoney will again represent the town of Bradford; Eli Crall, the town of Center; S. S. Jones, the town of Clinton; Frank Roach, the town of Harmony; W. E. Shoemaker, the town of Janesville; W. T. Sherman, the town of La Prarie; N. M. Gleason, Linn; John A. Paul, the town of Milton; H. S. Stevens, Plymouth; Fred Rehfeld, Rock; W. W. Swingle, Turkey; Thomas Clark, Johnstown; W. B. Maxson, Milton village; W. H. Johnson, the first ward of Evansville; A. C. Gray, the second ward; S. B. Hedges, the first ward of Janesville; M. P. Richardson, the second ward; J. L. Bear, the third ward; J. A. Deuning, the fourth ward; Edward Rutherford, the fifth ward.

LATTER DAY SAINTS
AT BIG CONFERENCE2,000 Delegates and Visitors From Many Parts of World Gathered At Independence, Mo.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Independence, Mo., April 6.—The annual general conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was opened here today with 2,000 delegates and visitors in attendance from many parts of the world. The conference was opened by President Joseph Smith, who yesterday celebrated his fiftieth anniversary as head of the Mormon Church. The morning was devoted to opening ceremonies and a sermon at 11 o'clock and the first business meeting was held this afternoon. The conference will be in session several weeks, and will dispose of a large amount of routine business. It is rumored that President Joseph Smith, who is a son of the founder of Mormonism, may announce his retirement at the present conference. He will be succeeded by his son, Frederick M. Smith, grandson of the prophet, upon whom, in recent years, has fallen a large share of his father's work, because of the ill health of the elder Smith.

Joseph Smith, who is now in his seventy-eighth year, is a cousin of the founder of Mormonism, and has been declared by the Supreme Court of the United States to be the successor of the original church founded by Joseph Smith, the prophet. According to their belief, Missouri is the Promised Land and independence the city of Zion, where some day the great temple of the faith will be built.

Town of Rock.

Afton, April 6.—By a majority of one vote, the citizens of the township of Rock rendered a verdict against the open saloon yesterday and for another year. Afton will remain in the dry column. The total vote on the license proposition was 175, of which 88 were against and 87 for license. ROCKFORD TO HAVE
THE SALOONS AGAINForest City Went "Wet" in Yesterday's Election by Majority of 213 Votes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Rockford, Ill., April 6.—Rockford township swung back into the wet column today after the longest and most bitterly fought campaign in its history. The wet's majority is 213. The drys won two years ago by 156. The wets carried twelve of the seventeen districts. Two years ago they were beaten in ten. The total vote was: Wets, 5,162; drys, 3,949.

The entire county is dry outside of Rockford.

Managers of the local option campaign, which was well organized, declared they were overwhelmed with money poured into the city in the last few days by the brewing interests. A defeat in the Swedish-American districts upset the hopes of the drys and to prejudice resulting from recent labor troubles is attributed to part the wet's victory.

The license forces made a quiet but energetic effort to swing Rockford back to the wet side. They held no meetings, but issued thousands of circulars. Many workers were here from out of town in the interest of the wets. Representatives of the law enforcement league allege there was colonization and much illegal voting and say there will be investigation and prosecution wherever possible.

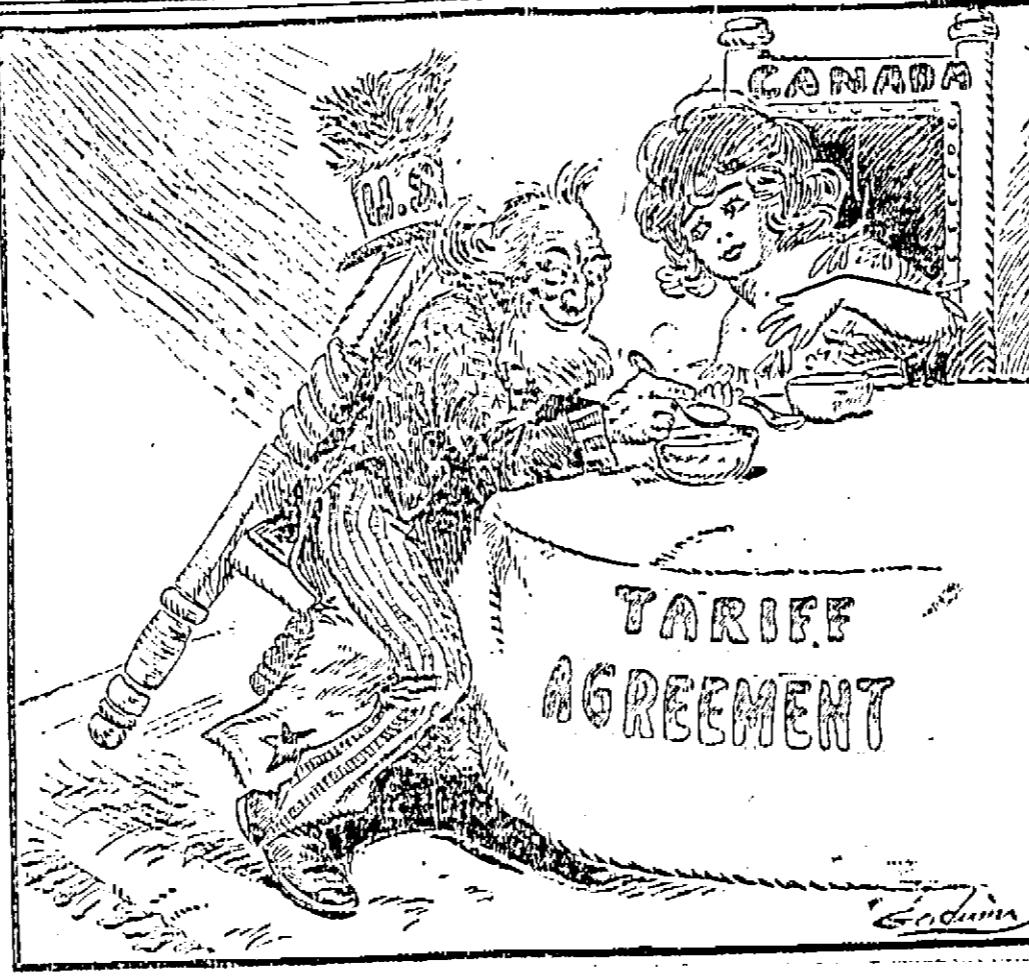

Challengers for the drys turned back many in several districts, but the majority immediately were sworn in by representatives of the wets and voted. The election was quiet, the only arrest being for lighting.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

New York, April 6—Old Trinity Church was the scene this afternoon of a notable gathering of educators, clergymen and others who assembled to celebrate the semi-centennial of St. Stephen's College, at Antioch—On-Hudson. The College was chartered in 1860, though it had been started some years previously as a small training class in the rectory of the Church of the Holy Innocents, at Antioch. It is said that about one-twentieth of all the communicants of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States are under the pastoral care of alumnus and former students of St. Stephen's.

DECIDED GAINS SHOWN BY WETS THROUGH STATE

LICENSE WAS THE PRINCIPAL QUESTION VOTED ON.

DRYS LOST BIG CITIES

Beloit, Madison, Monroe, Edgerton, in vicinity of Janesville All Want Saloons.

All the larger cities in the state and many of the smaller cities in which the license question was the issue were carried for license. As usual, the non-license strength was chiefly in the towns and smaller villages.

Among the large cities carried for license are Racine, Kenosha, Antigo, Beloit, Baraboo, Sparta, Green Bay, DePere, Hudson, Waupaca, Edgerton, Fond du Lac, New Richmond, Oconomowoc, Marquette, Madison and Sturgeon Bay.

The notable victories by the drys are Wiroqua, Dodgeville, Lake Mills, St. Croix Falls, Tomah, Stoughton, Richland Center, West Salem and Cumberland.

Fond du Lac voted for the first time in its history on the question of license and went wet by a large majority, while in Racine the dry forces were surprised by the very large vote by which they were beaten.

There was a hot fight in Marquette, and the wets won out, increasing their majority over last year.

Madison, the capital city, went wet by 720 majority, and Sturgeon Bay, which voted dry a year ago, returned to the wet column.

Heintz went wet by only 50 majority against 320 last time. The killing of John Hayes by Pelleymen Janvrin is said to have partly been responsible for the close vote.

Edgerton, went wet by 1100 majority. The result may be contested by the drys, as eighteen votes were challenged on the ground of non-residence.

The town of Oshkosh, in which the northern hospital for the insane is located, went wet.

Stoughton, one of the strongest dry towns in the state, remains on the water wagon.

New Richmond, where there has been so much controversy between the "wets" and the "dry," voted for license.

In some cities where elections were held questions of local interest other than the license question were as follows:

A. L. Gray, a former councilman, who was convicted of bribery and had only recently been restored to citizenship by the governor, became a candidate for office in Green Bay, but he was turned down by the voters.

Washburn elected a socialist mayor thereby getting in Milwaukee's class.

Superior did not go quite as far as Milwaukee or Washburn, electing only a Socialist supervisor.

Waupaca voted a $50,000 school bond issue—with the help of the women.

Among the notables who ran for office, J. J. McGillicuddy, former member of the legislature, was elected mayor of Black River Falls; Assembyman Frank Hammill was elected mayor of Spooner; but former Congressman Minor was defeated for mayor of Superior.

Evanston defeated the park proposition.

The Circuit Judgeships.

No Justice of the supreme court is elected this year. Circuit Judges were elected in the Fourth circuit, Judge Kirwan of Manitowoc having no opposition. In the Sixth circuit, where Judge Bigelow of La Crosse, appointed to succeed Judge Fruitt, was re-elected, and in the Milwaukee circuit, where there was a four-cornered contest, the candidates being Julius E. Roehr, Franz C. Eichwald, Casimir Gondek and John C. Klosz, Social Democrat. The Milwaukee returns indicate the election of Klosz.

FEW ARRESTS AS A RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S ELECTION

Celebrators Developed No Disorderly

Symptoms and Only Three Appeared in Court Today.

Except for a more or less noisy celebration by the supporters of the successful candidates in yesterday's election and also by the friends of Keeney, there was little trouble and only three arrests to mar the day's record. Two of those brought before Judge Ellfeld in municipal court this morning charged with drunkenness were not residents of this city.

George Bushford of Beloit said that he had been drunk but on promise to celebrate elsewhere in the future was allowed to go after paying fine amounting to $4.00. Roy Koenig of Edgerton also pleaded guilty and went to jail for six days in lieu of enough money to pay a fine of $3 and costs. Tom Doherty, a regular offender pleaded not guilty, but later changed his plea when given an opportunity to sign the pledge and was allowed to go.

GERMS OF DISEASE IN RENTED HOUSES

W. A. T. A. Warns Against Moving Into Houses Where Consumptives Have Died or Have Resided.

The urgent necessity for ascertaining the history of dwellings into which families are about to move is pointed out in a bulletin issued by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association. The bulletin is based on the fact that consumption is communicated to a great extent by the occupancy of dwellings previously used by families in which there is a consumptive or a death from tuberculosis has occurred.

"Many innocents are literally slaughtered annually because a family without the slightest taint of consumption moves into a house which has harbored a case or in which a death from tuberculosis has occurred," says the bulletin. "The newcomers absorb the germs by the wholesale and soon the disease is communicated to all members of the family. Ultimately, there is a series of thousands of wholly preventable cases to be traced back to one home."

"We ask that every family intending to move inquire thoroughly into the history of its next home. Every family ought to be assured of whether or not it has been occupied by a consumptive or has been vacated because of the death of an occupant suffering from the disease."

"It is very important, even if it costs a small sum, to make such investigations, for the saving is hundredfold. If a merchant conditioned handing out a line of credit, he would not hesitate nor would he have much difficulty in finding all information. It is infinitely more important to investigate when human life is at stake."

CHICAGO PRESS CLUB ENJOYS GOOD TIME WITH MILLIONAIRE STEEL KING.

CHICAGO, III.—The Chicago Press Club had a most enjoyable occasion when it acted as host for the millionaire steel king, Andrew Carnegie. From the moment Mr. Carnegie stepped from his private car he was in the hands of a jolly crowd and he enjoyed every minute of the day.

ANOTHER CHANGE LIKELY IN UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

Upper left, Judge Willis Van Devanter of the Eighth Judicial District. Upper right, Lloyd W. Dawson of Chicago, at present Solicitor General. Lower right, Justice Moody, United States Supreme Court, who may be retired by special bill to be introduced in congress.

Washington, D. C.—There is a constantly recurring rumor in the capital to the effect that Justice Moody, who is 57 years old, may be retired by special bill before he reaches the age limit. Justice Moody has been in most of the time during the past year. In such case a bill should be passed. It will make the third vacancy to be filled by President Taft. Judge Horace Lurton was the first selection, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Justice Peckham. It is entirely too early as yet to forecast accurately the selection of a successor to the late Justice Brewer.

Two men have been suggested as standing in favor with President Taft for this vacancy. One is the present minister to Japan, Lloyd W. Dawson, and the other is Judge Willis Vander of the Eighth Judicial District, whose name is brought forward by Senator Clark of Wyoming, chairman of the senate committee on judiciary.

ADJUSTO Corsets With Patent Reducing Bands

ADJUSTO Corsets are presented for 1910, showing the famous "adjusting bands" (patented) with the new EXTE-NATION TABS and SUPPORTER LOOPS.

Each tab or reducing band extends to bottom edge of corset where it is joined to one end of an elastic loop, the other end of which is attached to the corset skirt.

The hose supporter is attached to this loop through a sliding ring and when fastened to the hose, holds down band and corset skirt smooth and flat.

Thus a far greater reduction of abdomen, hips and upper limbs is accomplished than heretofore and the wearer enjoys the utmost support and comfort.

THE ADJUSTO

is universally recognized as the most practical, hygienic and effective reducing corset ever invented. The "adjusting bands" can be tightened or loosened instantly without removing from the figure.

Stout, medium and average women—thousands of them—are now wearing the ADJUSTO. If you would conceal all excess flesh, appear stylish, graceful and enjoy better health and more comfort, the ADJUSTO is the ultimate corset. PRICE $3.00.

MILWAUKEE'S MAYOR.

Milwaukee has not only elected a social democrat as mayor, but has also given the control of the city council and the county board to this same political party. In fact, while Milwaukee is the first city in the country to turn its city affairs over to the social democrats, it may not be in such a bad way after all. Years of abuse by the old democratic machine headed by Dave Rose and divisions in the republican ranks have disgusted the average citizen with conditions and they voted for the social democrats as the lesser of the evils presented to them.

What will be accomplished will be watched with interest not only by the state but by the country at large, and if the results are such as are predicted by this revolution other cities

may follow the Cream City's example.

However, Milwaukee has only itself to blame for the whole affair if any blame is to be attached.

WETS AND DRIES.

The vote throughout this state and in Illinois has demonstrated that the liquor element are making a hard fight for existence. While it may not be said that they seek to control the politics of the state, still they are making strenuous efforts to discon-nounce the coming legislature from passing any county option law by showing that the citizens of the larger cities want saloons. The result in Janesville was much larger in favor of the saloon than even the liquor men expected. Rockford's long wet again after two years of dry times is another surprise. However, Beloit's narrow margin in favor of the saloons has given the liquor people much to think about and may result in a reformation of the system

by which the saloons are now run.

LA FOLLETTE AND ROOT.

This morning's dispatches from Washington announce that Senator

La Follette has served notice upon the Senate that he will speak in opposition to the administration's railroad measure at an early date. Of course this means long-winded orations which can be used as chautauquas by Wisconsin senators during the summer months when he can spare time from his Wisconsin campaign for reelection. However, it is said that now as he has discovered who has been plotted to oppose him

he will not devote all his time to Wisconsin politics, as originally planned,

so the country at large may hear him

air his views on important subjects which oppose the republican policies.

In relation to this same railway measure it is interesting to note what the Christian Science Monitor has to say about Senator Root of New York and his attitude as regards this important piece of republican legislation.

Senator Root of New York has been engaged for a good part of the present week in making an argument in support of the administration's commerce, or railroad, bill, which some say is one of the best of his life. The fact that he has been able to attract and to hold an unusually large attendance in the senate chamber gives force to the statement that his speech has made converts for the measure and increased the confidence of those who have all along been favorable to it.

"Perhaps one of his very best points was his frank declaration that my amendment calculated to increase the efficiency of the measure would be not only unopposed but welcomed on his side of the house. The effect of this was to disarm and to silence antagonists of a purely factitious character. But he was no less successful in his replies to those senators who were seeking knowledge of the bill as such as a man of his legal training could give them.

Speaking of autos, it would not seem necessary for the chauffeur of a fire department official's machine to put on the extra speed in returning from a fire that he does in going to it, as is now apparently the practice.

PRESS COMMENT.

It's refreshing to learn that a crown prince can be stuck on a milking proposition, even to the rest of us.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

As a general rule, these titled foreign media, a practice of getting "stuck on" American addresses.

To Continue.

Those forty-foot seats at the Jeff-Johnson fight are selling at $5 each, while those nearer the ring and lower command as high as $20. The higher the cheaper.—Milwaukee News.

But the closer, the better view.

Why be Sordid?

The Mississippi legislator who confesses that he was bribed to vote for a candidate for the United States Senate but caused a separation, is money so scarce in the cotton belt.—Milwaukee Journal.

Why not show a little human kindness occasionally? Money may not be as scarce as dishonest legislators in that section of the country.

Side Issues.

Of course this mild weather is fine, but at the same time one should not forget that it will help to bring the annual mosquito pest just that much sooner than usual.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

It seems idle to worry about mosquitoes when good weather may bring bumper crops and increased prosperity to the nation as a whole.

Eating Crow.

It was gall and wormwood to insurgent papers like the Milwaukee Journal to see President Taft win a reciprocal tariff arrangement with the Canadian commissioners after all they said about his making a failure of it. And President Taft didn't hold the trump in the diplomatic game, either.—Monroe Journal.

Like La Follette and the report of the senatorial committee, they have dropped the erstwhile live boar into oblivion, which was wise, considering that their hand had been called.

The Real Issue.

The appeal of the women and children in Saturday night's local option parade was one which it would take a very stout hearted voter to resist, especially if he has children of his own.—Rockford Register-Gazette.

The children, in truth, are the real issue. A father who will not cast his ballot to abolish an institution that will lead his children into temptation, is unworthy of the name.

Reference is made in this connection to the debates in the constitutional convention and to contemporaneous history as supporting this theory.

Alluding to the fact that the constitution guarantees to citizens the right of petition, the court asked: "Where in does the primary nomination of United States senators differ from the exercise of the right of petition?" The legislative candidate is thereby informed of something that he has a right to know and of something that it is his duty to heed. He may not regard the verdict as obligatory, but should treat it as advisory. It is not apparent how our primary law can be held to be an coercive as to destroy judgment and discretion on the part of a member of our legislature when he comes to perform the duty of electing a United States senator. Where the majority for some candidate is large great deference should, and no doubt will, be accorded to its voice.

Construing the law as imposing no legal obligation on the part of any member of the legislature to vote for his party nominee at the primary, we must assume that the legislators will vote according to their consciences and convictions, giving due weight to the advisory vote of the people, and that therefore neither the letter nor the spirit of the constitution has been transgressed.

This is most interesting just at this time with the senatorial campaign just begun.

Down in Chicago the republican party that has followed those received a severe jolt yesterday when the votes were counted. The citizens who do not approve of the manner in which the city has been governed by the republicans, so turned the council over to the democrats. Well it is true and tick between the two parties in Chicago, no matters could have been much worse.

Indiana has decided that their senator down at Washington is all right when they tore to shreds the liquor measure. This goes to show how a state can not appreciate what republican means in the broadest sense of the word. Just like Wisconsin for instance.

Why did not someone think of it and make the renovation of the street car company a campaign issue. We are told that it will take a year before any permanent improvements can be made and in the meantime the cars continue to sway along on their pilgrimages to and from the barn.

Now that election is over and all matters settled for the coming year let every citizen with public spirit get together and start boozing Janesville for all he is worth. Concerted action can accomplish a lot and with policies out of the way begin working for the best interests of the city you live in.

Evidently the people of Janesville approved of the principles that City Attorney Maxfield set forth in his campaign documents. Their vote demonstrates a confidence that inst-

ments

You must live with yourself and do business with yourself AS LONG AS YOU ARE YOU.

You cannot get away from yourself, not in an eternity!

You can fool your friends or the public or your family a part of the time, but you cannot fool yourself all of the time, not if you try a thousand years.

And if you can win your own respect by listening to the monitor of conscience, why, it doesn't matter, because there is one friend who will always stand by you—yourself.

If Blaikie does his duty and cleans

Milwaukee he will have with him his very best friend—himself.

Advertising As Help In General Economy

That a man who advertises his business properly is not only a distributor, but also helps the public generally to economize, was the statement made yesterday by Arthur Brisbane of New York in an address before the Chicago Advertising association.

This is certainly true in my case for I know that I have saved my patients in the aggregate many thousands of dollars compared to what their dental work would have cost them if they had gone elsewhere.

And then, also, think of the pain I am daily saving people.

SALOONS HAVE MARGIN OF 663

WILL TARRY A WHILE LONGER
IN JANESEVILLE.

RECORD VOTE WAS POLLED

Harry L. Maxfield Was Re-Elected City Attorney by Majority of 750 Over Fred Burpee.

Janesville will continue to license the saloons. Of the 2,657 citizens who voted on the proposed charter yesterday, 1,615 were in favor of "wet" and but 532 lined up with the "dry," giving the non-inhibition forces a majority of 623.

The "wets" failed to carry a single ward, though they lined up with seven votes for an even break in the Third and but 50 in the First. In the Fourth and Fifth wards sentiment was 3 to 1 in favor of the liquor interests.

Maxfield Wins Away.

Harry L. Maxfield, republican candidate for reelection as city attorney defeated Fred C. Burpee, the democratic candidate, by a margin of 750 votes. A total of 2,511 were cast and of this number Maxfield received 1,635 and Burpee 876. Mr. Burpee carried the Fifth ward by a narrow margin of 16 votes and backed by 52 for an even break in the Fourth. In the other wards Maxfield was the favorite 3 to 1.

Buchholz Re-Elected.

The balance of the republican ticket was named without opposition. James A. Fathers, candidate for reelection as city treasurer, received 1,704 votes. Arthur M. Flynn, candidate for school committee, received 1,651 votes. Fred C. Burpee cast for Stanley J. Pyle.

McNulty of Clinton was in justice of the peace. J. P. Pyle, candidate for sheriff, received 1,643 votes. Campbell and Miss Hazel of Stoughton were visitors yesterday.

Aldermanic honors was the only contest of the day. Maxfield was re-elected by a margin of 55 votes—the largest given a republican candidate for that office in several years—recording 280 votes to 185 for Baumhamer. The extended vote on license and the city ticket is shown in the following tables.

New York, April 6—A notable wedding was that of Miss Elizabeth S. Rogers, daughter of William A. Rogers, the artist, and Mrs. Rogers, and Lieutenant Henry Sheldon Green. The wedding took place at St. James' Episcopal church and was followed by a reception at the Hotel Majestic.

This proved his wisdom, and today, as the only unskilled laborer in this section, he can command almost fabulous prices.—Puck.

AT THE DRAY HOUSES.

Charles R. Evans, who heads the emcees, has been of a character R. C. Whittier would have, which rarely witnessed, showing how deeply the play has engaged him. Friday, he entrenched in the hearts of the general public is the memory of the old man of Evans and Hoy. The advent of remarkable interest to theatre played a single rôle for thirty-five hundred consecutive times. This was during the long and successful life of Charlie Hoy's most famous comedy, "A Purior Match." For twenty-five years Evans and they were the most to the writer.

"The Girl from Home," a powerful drama of genuine fun makes the American stage could boast. The dabbles of today have sat at their feet time and again to be entertained.

The attraction at the Myers theatre,

Use Animals Make of Their Tails. Horses, cows and other creatures use their tails as fly flappers. Cats, squirrels and many more twirl them around their necks for comfort. The rat has raised the use of the tail to a fine art, for by its means it guides the blind and steals gravy, oil and cream out of jars and bottles.

The macaque plays as merrily with its tail as a kitten does, and the marmoset while it sleeps uses its tail as a sort of blanket.

The macaque catches crabs with its tail. Every one knows how the monkey journeys through patches of forest by swinging from tree to tree, while the fisher steer their way through the water by their tail flaps.

The ant never puts up its big bony tail for an umbrella. The vanity of the peacock is fed by the beauty of its tail.—Dumb Animals.

Collar of Honor. In France the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals decorated dogs that have distinguished themselves by deeds of bravery with a tastefully designed "collar of honor."

Among the animals decorated, in this way one of the most celebrated is Baschus, a large bulldog, whose specialty is to stop runaway horses by jumping up and seizing them by the bridle. It is calculated that this intelligent animal has already saved the lives of eight persons, if not more.

Panthard, a great dane, received a collar for saving his mistress from the attack of a teacup, and Turk, a splendid Newfoundland, has had similar honors for rescuing young children from drowning on several occasions.—The Sunday Magazine.

and the result was always delightful. On April 9, matinee and evening. This novel play might be said to have been contracted for laughing purposes only, were it not for the fact that a number of tense, gripping dramatic scenes present themselves. Probably one of the strongest scenes of the play is the racing scene during the third act, the dramatic intensity of which has seldom been equaled. The company, which has been especially engaged for the presentation of this remarkable play, is headed by Miss Marie Curie, who will appear in the title role. The company carries its own special scenery and effects which are necessary for the proper presentation of this interesting play.

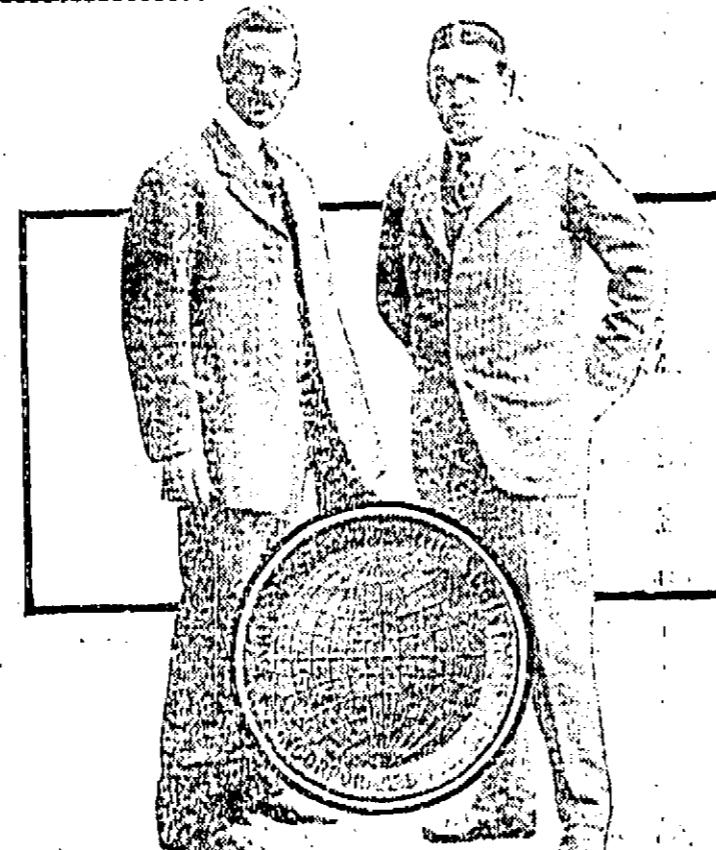

In the principle character of the story of "They Loved a Lassie" Mr. Evans is fitted to perfection, and it is generally declared that his exceptional abilities were never so happily engaged in the humorous situations of this charming farce. The tour of "They Loved a Lassie" has been more profitable than any of the many comedies that have started in the Whittier Opera House, Chicago, and the personal reception of Charles R. Evans by the audiences of the differ-

HUGHEY JENNINGS AND THE TIGERS.

Hopes of Detroit fans are centered in the leadership of Hughey Jennings for a fourth straight American league pennant. They have gotten so accustomed to having Jennings and pennants for Michigan that it is now considered a holding sacred to the Wolverine state. There is reason, too, why Jennings should desire this fourth pennant more than anything else in the world—a chance at the world's series. Hughey took hold of the Tigers in 1907. The club was badly disorganized, but the fighting spirit and harmony was made the keynote of the Tiger campaign. The result was the American league pennant by a fair margin. Then the Tigers, looking upon no prime favorites over the Cubs in the world's series, fell down hard, failing to do better than tie one game. The next year Detroit topped the American league pennant by an eyelash, the last game at Chicago being the deciding one. That year the Cubs were contestants again and the Tigers were twirled to a single victory in the big show by Mullin. Then came the race of 1909, another league flag by a very comfortable margin and the improvement of the Tigers. In the world's series, for three games were taken from the Pirates. But still Jennings was just shy of the world's flag. If he can hold the fourth pennant he has another chance at the world's honors and on the scale of yearly improvement he has the edge right to top.

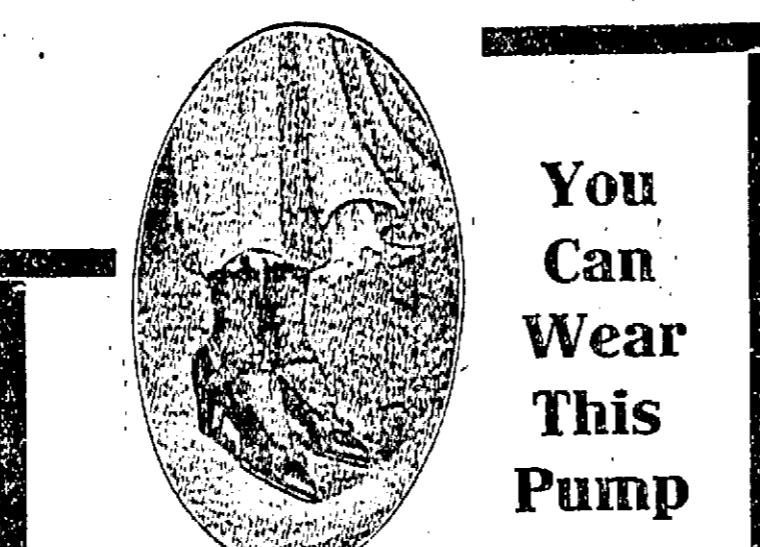

Until Jennings and his "Wee-Ab" showed up in 1907, Tigertown had not had a pennant since that great team of 1887 came home with the National league flag. Detroit first took its place in the big leagues in 1881 as a member of the National league. This membership in the pioneer organization continued until 1888, when the club rejoined. Detroit was taken into the American league when that circuit was formed in 1900. The early years were stormy ones for the Tigers. Managers galore were tried, but without success until Jennings was called. George Stallings was the first manager and lasted through 1900 and 1901. Frank Dwyer was the 1902 leader, while Ed. Barrows stood the gaff through 1903 and a portion of

The Ticklemouse —and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey

Her Silver Rocking Chair

WELL, Dorfy dear, if we take you along again tonight, do you think you can keep from getting us into trouble?"

"The little girl was watching her toy balloon grow bigger, under the Mouse's fairy tickling." She smiled shyly and nodded.

"I did try to be careful, last night—honestly I did. I got scared, I guess, when I saw how far ahead you and Davy were, and I knocked the Dog Star over before I saw what I was striking at."

"I thought as much," said the Mouse with a kindly twinkle of his sharp, kind eyes. "Well, we'll be safer in a balloon, perhaps, than trusting to a moonbeam rope."

He helped the twins into the basket, let the balloon float through the window, and they shot upward into the blue sky, where a bright new moon was shining.

"Now where?" asked Davy.

"Now," said the Mouse, "I'm going to work along toward the Milky Way again. It's a lovely sight, but I don't believe you paid much attention to it last night, did you, Dorfy?"

Dorfy laughed as she thought of her wild scamper down the Milky Way. "No," she said, "isn't there any danger of our bumping into the Dog Star tonight, Mr. Ticklemouse?"

The Mouse shook his head with a wise grin. "Trust me for that! I never did care much for dogs, and cats are even worse!"

"Cats? Why, there aren't any cats up here, are there?"

"You never can tell!" The Ticklemouse caught at the cloud edges with his boathook as the soft night breeze wafted them gently along. "They say that the Cats o' Davu climb up the sun's rays, just before sunrise, now and then."

He let go his boathook and threw out a couple of sandbags. The balloon rose above the clouds and drifted over a broad, shining path between them and the new moon. "That's it," he said, his own eyes sparkling at its beauty, "that's the Milky Way."

"I should think they'd call it the Starry Way," Davy told him. And, indeed, it was just one broad, glowing carpet of ten thousand twinkling stars.

"Folks down on the earth can't see it as plainly as we do now," the Ticklemouse explained. "I'll show it to you from below, some night, and then you'll too—then jumped as a scream rose from the sky below them. Dorfy had leaped over a little too far!

A quick jerk on the valve cord and the balloon began to empty itself. The Mouse hung one arm around Davy, jerked loose the parachute, hanging ready for use—and overboard they went, dropping like a shot till the parachute opened, checking their fall.

The screams had stopped, and the Mouse was white with terror; but his sweet little companion came to him, and through his carelessness? A big white cloud, tougher than the rest, caught and held them, and the Ticklemouse looked wildly around for Dorfy—perhaps it had stripped her, too.

Then he began to laugh. He pointed to the new moon, swinging to and fro on the cloud.

There on the silvery crescent of the new moon, as safe and happy as in a rocking chair at home, Dorfy sat smiling at them!

She had rigged a tiny sail out of her handkerchief, against which the soft breeze blew, rocking the lovely moon back and forth—the daintiest sort of swing a Sleepyland twin ever had. She threw a kiss at Davy, who clambered up beside her while the moon swung to and fro.

"Well, chilums," said the Ticklemouse at last, "if you're ready to leave that new silver rocking chair, we'll slide back home."

Sure enough—the long, homeward slide down the moonbeam rope he hastily twisted together was no trouble at all. The stars were still shining overhead when the Ticklemouse turned their pillows over for them and tucked them in.

"Next time," and he shook a warning paw at the sleepy little girl, "I'm going to lash you to the rigging, Dorfy. The lady in the moon might not have her silver rocking chair right below us."

"Yes, I suppose so. I suppose they must be chunks of cream that slipped out of the Big Dipper, back into the Milky Way!" The Mouse chuckled and nudged Davy, and the little boy laughed see it looks like a milky cloud. The stars are so small, that's why they make it look that way."

The little girl leaned over the edge of the basket. "Some of the Milky Way stars are pretty big," she said. "Do they belong to you, Mr. Ticklemouse?"

"Yes, I suppose so. I suppose they must be chunks of cream that slipped out of the Big Dipper, back into the Milky Way!" The Mouse chuckled and nudged Davy, and the little boy laughed

For the Children.
The mother who believes in beginning the artistic education of her children at the earliest possible moment, may do a great deal in that direction with the aid of the nursery wall. The sides of the room are first papered with some plain neutral color, then divided into a frieze and panels, outlined with the darkest shade of the chosen neutral tint and upon these subdivisions are pasted brightly colored and well-drawn figures of animals and birds, which are to be obtained in the form of long sheets of wall paper, which may easily be cut out and affixed to the walls. Thus a young child may not only be taught much that is essential in regard to the proper placing of colors and their composition, but because of the questions which they will be apt to ask about the animals and birds, will require a great deal of valuable information about natural history.

Rep. Madison of Kansas below, Senator Purcell of South Dakota at top.

Washington, D. C.—The members of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee and their votes on all questions are being watched closely. As a general rule the committee is holding up with full party vote. This has two notable exceptions in Senator Purcell of South Dakota and Representative Madison of Kansas. One of the important questions decided was whether Secretary Ballinger should come before the committee or not.

Following this session, the democrats announced that with the exception of Senator Purcell of South Dakota they had voted in favor of compelling the secretary of the interior to appear at once. Representative Madison of Kansas, insurgent, voted with the democrats.

Whether or not Mr. Madison will vote with the democratic members when the verdict comes to be taken is a question. His course during the examination of witnesses has given but slight intimation of his position. Senator Purcell voted with the republicans, simply because, as a lawyer, he declared the "defense" should have the right to call its witness at its pleasure, the same privilege having been granted the "prosecution."

Dog Gave Warning of Death.
On the morning of October 19, one of my dogs set up a most mournful howl, and I got out of bed and wrote on the wall, "Some one is dead," and the following day related my experience to the anti-slavery station here and recorded it on the chimney. My sister died at 4:45 a. m. on the morning of October 19, at Wimbledon, exactly at the time that the dog gave the significant warning.—Letter in Madras Mail.

Lincoln said of Washington: "Washington is the mightiest name on earth; none above mightiest in the cause of civil liberty, still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name a eulogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. ## CURING CATARRH

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been afflicted ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious affections.

We honestly believe Rexall Muc-Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Muc-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistency for a reasonable time, then, if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that anyone could make and should attract our attention of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Smith Drug Co.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

HAT there should be some legal method by which a wife could get a fixed proportion of her husband's earnings struck me as one of the best items advanced by Mrs. Ethel Arnold, a prominent English suffragist, who has been lecturing in this country.

Only I don't think it ought to have to be a legal method.

It seems to me that the men of this country ought to have some enough to know that nothing will train their wives to the best economy, the wisest spending and saving, as much as having a fixed income with fixed purposes.

Even if the husband who gives his wife money at odd times when he happens to feel like it does, on the whole, give more generously than the man who allows her regularly a fixed proportion of his salary, he isn't treating her as kindly or as wisely as the other man.

For, as everyone who has ever lived on an irregular income knows, it is much harder to live within $1,500 when it comes in unexpected lumps and at odd times than within $1,000 a year paid regularly.

Of course, some women are foolish about money—just like some men—and not fit to be trusted with anything more than car fare—just like some men—but it seems to me that the average man with the average wife and the average income cannot do better than to give her a fixed proportion of his salary every week on which to run the house.

It stands to reason that no man with any absorbing business interests can possibly have the energy or time to make the running of his home a second business.

That's properly his wife's affair. And the who man turns it over to her completely?

He not only expects her to do the planning and buying, but also the paying.

He doesn't say, "Make the bills as small as you can," and groan or rage and get into debt, when she, with the meager knowledge of money which most women who never handle it naturally have, lets them get too large.

Instead he gives her each week a sum of money which he and she have agreed is the right proportion of his salary, to go for home expenses, and expects her to keep within it.

And when a wife knows that her husband has trust and confidence in her to that extent, I've noticed she usually manages to deserve it.

And then, too, it's very much easier to be economical with actual money in your bureau drawer—money that you see growing painfully less with each purchase, than with charge accounts, no matter how much you dread your husband's wrath if you make them too large.

And again, the possession by the wife of a fixed sum of actual money makes it possible for her to make each purchase, and as every housekeeper knows, that means economy with a large E.

And then there's the plain justice of it.

If two men were partners in a business concern and one happened to be the receiver of the money, he wouldn't feel at liberty because of that fact to say to his partner, "I'll pay all the firm bills and when you want any money for yourself, come to me, and if I think best I'll give it to you, but certainly shan't give you any fixed sum."

No partner would stand for that for a moment.

And isn't a wife who runs a man's home and is the majority of middle class women do, no general housework girl, nurserymaid, seamstress, housekeeper and homemaker rolled into one—not she doing her share in their partnership in the business of living, and ought she not to be treated as well as a partner in any other business?

Why not, please?

$10,000 from the Confederate Veterans for her design for a monument to the women of the Confederacy.

A replica of the statue will be placed on the grounds of the capitol of each of the Confederate states. There were 80 designs submitted in the competition.

The statue is to be of bronze, eight feet in height, and it represents the Goddess of fame placing a wreath on the head of a Confederate woman, who is reclining. This counterpart has a sadness of grief expressed appropriate to the sacrifice southern women of war time. It is on the right of the central figure, Fame, which is represented as supporting on her left the figure of a dying Confederate soldier, to whom the southern woman is extending, even in death, the palm branch of victory.

Mrs. Kinney is only 22 years old. She has been visiting friends in Chicago, where she is known in art circles.

Mrs. Kinney received the contract in Nashville before she was of legal age to sign the contract. One of her best pieces of work at the Art Institute was the modeling of the figure in the design done by her class of "The Spirit of the Miners."

THE DUTIES OF LIFE.

BY MARY RESSLER.

The happy people are the useful people. Since eyes were made for seeing, then there can be no doubt but "honesty is its own excuse for helping," but the useless beauty needs constant explanation.

It is not enough to be pretty. The sum of life is not in being good even. One must live up to the opportunities that present themselves for usefulness no well if one be to happy.

An idle person, or one engaged in useless amusements, is never a happy one. Life is made up of work if one would get the best there is in it.

To work does not mean the work of a day laborer. Like the author who made his living easy according to the farmer "just by writing books," it's a good deal in the point of view.

Work is a relative term. Many a man who should be leading a comfortable life, spends his days measuring sticks while some of the turners should be in city offices. We don't all fit into the niche in which we are placed but we can all keep busy at the work that is at hand while pluming and making way for the better work to come.

It is hard for us to think of success unaccompanied by riches. To the world, to make money means that one has worked wisely and well. Life is full, however, of the little lessons that some of the best loved and most successful are those that work hardest for the least pay.

It is difficult sometimes to distinguish between a divine discontent, which is the stirring of the spirit leading to better things, and a mortal discontent.

Discontented people are poor workers. They have a bitter feeling against the world and give it their poorest and most feeble efforts.

If you have been in the ranks of those that feel that fate has allowed you begin to look within your own heart for the reason.

Take the child at school who is always complaining of teacher's "pet." As a rule the teacher's lot is a hard one and if some pleasant hard working earnest child enters the little circle, teacher is going to find it a pleasant opportunity to bestow some of the sweetness of her nature which an unruly hand has forced her to keep concealed. Nearly always a child that is beloved by the teacher is one that works earnestly and behaves decently.

Sometimes parents seem to love one child more than another. This is often for the same reasons. No one can help loving the dutiful, obedient, loving child with a difference from the love that is bestowed on the unruly ungrateful one.

In the business world it is the same story. Some men are called lucky. When it is only that they work hard and give to their labor the best within them of thought and purpose. The elect that watches the clock is either in need of holiday or he is a shirk. Don't be afraid of your work. If it is distasteful, still give it your earnest efforts, while you look about you for a more desirable position, and remember that work half done is no recommendation to a new employer.

Russia's Free Tea Stalls.

The Russian government is commonly supposed to be autocratic and even despotic, but, like other autocracies, it has an odd way of being at times quite paternal. In St. Petersburg tea stalls are provided by the authorities for the prevention of the spread of cholera. The disease was traced to the use of polluted drinking water, and accordingly the government established these stalls all over the country for the supply of beverages that should be free from all suspicion. The notice on top of the stall states that the sanitary committee provide hot water, tea and sugar free of charge to all comers. The attendants are paid by the government, and are not allowed to take any money for their service.—Wise World Magazine.

[EXCERPT FROM THE GAZETTE.]

Evanville, April 5.—The city election in Evansville today was a very quiet affair. Last year's candidates were all up for reelection with no opposition only in the third ward on the supervisor question, where Dr.
C. M. Smith, Jr., received a majority over his competitor, Henry L. Austin.
Alderman-at-large, was elected head of the city administration. Tuesday in a landslide to the Socialists, by a plurality over the strong Republican and Democratic candidates of nearly 3,000. This is the biggest plurality ever given a candidate for Mayor of this city.In other years a mayoralty candidate has been glad to have 3,000, but this year the Socialists have absorbed thousands of votes from both of the old parties. Boffel, the Republican candidate, who was expected to make a heavy run, was far behind both of the opposition tickets.Together with the Socialist victory in the city administration comes a Socialist victory in the city council. The Socialists have elected all six Aldermen-at-large, with many of their ticket in the various wards.

J. H. Eaton, who traveled all of a thousand miles to come to his old home to vote, was heard in a temperance meeting at the armory, the hall being crowded with his old associates, many of them gathering there out of curiosity to hear what he had to say of his work. Mr. Eaton is a new recruit in the Salvation Army at New Orleans, and is introduced by the commander of the army at the nightly meetings as "the reformed boozie."
He attracted by far the largest meeting of the "dry's" that has been held in this city, and he did not spare his old associates, but caused them a few real jolts that caused some of them to make a hasty retreat from the meeting.The largest of the meetings was

STAGED LAST NIGHTBilly Moorehead Trims Nels Larson—Denning Takes Andrews' Measures and Ryan Has Shins

on Hammer.

Just how much Nels Larson of Evansville did not know about scientific boxing was demonstrated to him last night in six rounds by Billy Moorehead of Milwaukee in the windup of a series of boxing bouts staged by the Janesville Athletic club. No decision was given in any of the four bouts but in the windup, no decision was needed. Moorehead went around Larson like a copper around a barrel and when the exhibition was stopped in the sixth, the Evansville Swede was hopelessly out of the running.
The bout made a big hit with the fans who admired Larson's gameness but who also were loud in praise of the Milwaukee boy's ability to elude his opponent's punches and still escape without a scratch. Both weighed in at 148 pounds.Earl Denning of Chicago and Frederick Andrews of Milwaukee went six rounds in the semi-windup with the former decisively in favor of the Chicago lad. Denning was outweighed at least ten pounds but kept Andrews on the defensive all the time. The latter seemed to have no steam to bind his punches and Denning would take his jabs without turning a hair in an effort to land a telling wallop.
Andrews spent most of his time bunting and dancing around the ring although a portion of it was spent elbowing or against the ropes.Although both Jack Ryan of Fond du Lac and Al Hammer of Chicago were going at a fast clip at the end of their bout, Ryan had a shade on the Chicago boxer throughout the six rounds. The boys were supposed to weigh in at 133, but Hammer tipped the scales a good three pounds over the limit and entered the ring at least eight pounds heavier than Ryan.
Neither sustained much damage but had a decision given, Ryanwould have been returned the winner as he landed the clearest and hardest blows. Hammer's anxiety to count with his left led him into rash rushes that carried him half way over Ryan's shoulders and left openings for

KILL BANKMANAGER
AND INJURE OTHERS

ROBBERS LOOT PENNSYLVANIA CONCERN OF $5,000 AND ESCAPE.

FOUR PERSONS ARE WOUNDED

Four Highwaymen Enter Institution as Officials About to Close for Night—
Open Fire and Get Away With Booty.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 6.—While employees of the Victor Banking Company, George and Graham streets, McKees Rocks, a suburb six miles below Pittsburgh, were preparing to close for the night four men stepped from the shadows outside and began firing upon them. Two robbers with drawn revolvers warned away passerby while the other two went inside the bank.

The Dead.

Samuel Friedman, manager, killed with three bullets while trying to protect $6,000 on the counters of the bank from the robbers.

Fatally Injured.

Ignatz Schwartz, cashier, shot through head. Taken to McKees Rocks hospital.

Badly Injured.

Robert King, citizen, shot down on street by robbers as they ran with the plunder at McKees Rocks hospital, will live.

Andrew Milko, mill workman, hit by bullet.

Mary Knoe, employee of bank, slightly injured trying to save Friedman and Schwartz.

Officers Are in Pursuit.

Every detective that can be spared from Pittsburgh and from Allegheny county is scouring the country for the four bank robbers and murderers, who jumped on horses right outside the town with the $5,000 which they managed to secure.

The Victor bank is situated in a place lonesome after nightfall. It is on the dividing line between Schenckville and McKees Rocks and has done a heavy trade with workmen from the plants of each town. It is a bank for foreigners, and also has conducted a steamship agency. Last Saturday was pay day at most of the works and there was about $25,000 in the bank. Only $5,000 of it appeared on the counters, however, the rest being locked in the safes.

Three Shot Cashier.

The two men who entered the bank appear to have walked right up to the cashier's window and shot Schwartz down in his tracks then grabbed the piles of money which they stuffed into bags slung over their shoulder. Friedman was evidently in a chase after the four men and as he paused on the steps of the bank he was shot dead.

$500,000 STOPS DIVORCE SUIT.

General Miller, Standard Oil Magnate, Makes Peace With Wife.

Now York, April 6.—A cash payment of $500,000 has put an end to the marital warfare of Gen. Charles F. Miller, the millionaire Standard Oil man of Franklin, Pa., and his wife, Emma Bullen Miller, who until recently, has been making her home in this city.

From a friend of the couple it was learned that he had given her the $500,000 (which is about one-twentieth of his fortune), in consideration of her agreeing to live apart from him, to abandon the divorce action which she has been preparing for months and to relinquish all claims upon him.

Mrs. Miller also got the assurance from the general that he will abandon his divorce suit against her and never institute another.

CHAPTER XIII.

WHAT would have been the emotions of Cherub Devine could he have known that the Countess Vecchi had risen before the sun was fairly up for the purpose of interviewing his prisoner?

The Countess Vecchi was beginning to wish that she hadn't come, after all. Who could say what sort of prisoner she might be on the point of rousing? A man who was Cherub Devine?

"Well," she observed, "can you see now?"

"Oh, yes; quite well, thank you."

"But you don't know any more about what I am than before, do you?"

"Don't I, though?" And the unknown chuckled. "You're the Countess Vecchi."

"Humph!" said the countess. "That's a mere guess."

"Is it? Then I dare you to deny that you are not. Come, am I not right, my dear Adele?"

The countess started and tossed her head angrily.

"It doesn't matter in the least about my name. Perhaps you will tell me why you are in there."

"A stout, pink-faced person who is widely known, I believe, as Cherub Devine locked me in."

"Ah!" The countess did not mean to allow this explanation to be undisturbed, but it was.

"So he hasn't told you about it yet, oh?" commented the unseen prisoner. "Stupid of me, wasn't it, to allow him to trick me so easily? You wait! Your Mr. Devine is going to regret that he was so clever!"

"But why did he do it?"

"You might have guessed anyway. There's a lady in the case."

"A—r lady!" gasped the countess. "Some one that—that Mr. Devine?"

"Exactly. I found out only recently."

The arched lips of the Countess Vecchi were pressed tightly together; her chin was held very firmly. Although she could see nothing but the auger hole in the thick door, she stared at them.

"And you," she went on, after a pause, "you are interested in her also?"

"Naturally," came the rejoinder.

"But why should Mr. Devine wish to?"

"I'll explain all that. When he found that I happened to be the lady's husband he decoyed me here and locked me up."

"Oh, oh—her husband! I don't believe a word of it, not a word! It's a mistake, all an mistake. Why should you think that Mr. Devine cares enough for her to—to be so urgent to you as there?"

"Only because he is good as told me so himself. You see, my wife and I have been living apart. He thought I was dead. When I appear he finds me in the way. So he locks me up. But if there's any mistake I will point it out to Mr. Devine. There he is, eh?"

"Oh, I don't know what to think."

The Countess Vecchi was determined to hold her tears at the unexpected revelations, though, until she had put a few more questions. They were the ones she had been hounding to ask from the first.

"This—this other?—No; I mean this lady of whom you speak—is she young?"

"Just twenty-three."

"My own age," thought the countess. "Then she added aloud, "And she is quite pretty, I suppose?"

"Oh, she's pretty enough. But it's chiefly her cute ways which make her fascinating to men."

"Oh!" The countess caught her breath sharply. "Then she's fascinating? Is she a—blond?"

"Not a bit—a blond hair, big dark eyes. Her eyes are her strong point."

"Oh, I see," commented the countess, then to herself: "It's because I look something like her. And she's young and fascinating. Humph!"

"Glad I could tell you about her," observed the prisoner, "but if you don't mind I think I'll climb down off this cot. It's rather rickety, and I feel another sneezing fit coming on. Was there anything more?"

"I beg your pardon," she said earnestly. "Listed. You must go away from here at once."

"Nothing would please me better, but I can't crawl through these holes."

"I know, and I haven't a key to the padlock. But I shall get one. If I can't get the key, I shall demand that you be set at liberty. I'll go to my father, to Mr. Devine, and—"

"Oh, I wouldn't bother them about it. Just you say nothing at all, but find the key under the lock and then slip away. Perhaps you'd better wait until afternoon."

"But it's such a shame, keeping you shut up here like a criminal."

"That's so, I told them it was an outrage. And I've caught a frightful cold too. Think you can find the key, don't you?"

"I'm sure I can. I'll send Timulus on an errand and look in his desk."

"I'm greatly obliged, you know. You're a trump. It's mighty good of you!"

"It isn't at all. I couldn't do less, and if I ever speak to Mr. Devine again it will be only to tell him what I think of such cruel treatment."

"Goodby. I'm going now."

"Goodby, and go! Jack," came faintly.

It is impossible for animals to remain. For one thing, you never heard of any of the lower creation having even the rudiments of mathematics.

WETS" TIE "DRYS" IN NEBRASKA

Election Returns Show No Important Changes From Last Year.

Lincoln, Neb., April 6.—In a desperate attempt to escape arrest on a charge of attempted murder James G. Wilson, a railroad man, wrested a revolver from Special Officer Cartine and took refuge in an empty boiler at the foundry where he held the police and fire departments at bay for an hour.

The officers set fire to the pile of brush that lay around the boiler and when the flames had burned his hat and clothes, Wilson shot himself through the brain.

Wilson, whose wife left him six months ago, had made several attempts on the life of Oliver Scott, by whom Mrs. Wilson was employed as housekeeper.

KANSAS CITY IS REPUBLICAN.

Darlus A. Brown Defeats Andrew P. Evans for Mayor by 2,800.

Kansas City, Mo., April 6.—Complete returns from the 150 of the 190 precincts indicate that Darlus A. Brown (Rep.) has been elected mayor over Andrew P. Evans (Dem.) by about 2,800 and that practically all of the city offices will during the next two years be occupied by Republicans.

St. Louis, April 6.—Outside of Kansas City the Democrats have much to rejoice over in the Missouri municipal election results. They elected the mayor at Springfield, in a Republican district. At Joplin the Democrats elected seven out of eight councilmen. At Carthage the Republicans elected their whole ticket except the mayor. St. Louis held no election.

MICHIGAN "WETS" ARE LOSERS.

"Dry" Win Two Counties in Local Option Elections.

Detroit, Mich., April 6.—Complete returns from the 36 counties in Michigan where local option elections were held, show that 20 counties voted "dry" and 16 "wet." Of the 83 counties in Michigan, 40 will now be "dry" and 43 "wet."

There are 20 "dry" counties in which the liquor question was not resubmitted this year.

With 30 counties previously "dry," the "dry" lost two of the ten in which the question was resubmitted, held their own in the remaining eight and made 12 now "dry."

Volcano Destroys Crops.

Catania, April 6.—Mount Etna exhibited new activity. A stream of lava has turned toward Cetere, Reggio and has almost reached that village. The crops in the vicinity of Borrillo and Nicolosi have been ruined.

SOCIALISTS WIN IN MILWAUKEE.

Elect Mayor by Large Majority and Win Control City Council.

Milwaukee, April 6.—Emil Seidel (Socialist), a pattern maker, at present alderman at large, was elected head of the city administration by a plurality over the strong Republican and Democratic candidates of nearly 8,000. This is the biggest plurality ever given a candidate for mayor of this city.

Together with the Socialist victory in the city administration comes the Socialists' victory in the election of aldermen at large, with many of them elected in the various wards.

Notable Weddings in Washington.

Washington, April 6.—The spring weddings began today with two in which society was especially interested.

The first was that of Mrs. Constance Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Hoyt, and Ferdinand von Stumm of the German embassy.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. Hoyt. Mrs. Hoyt's sister, Mrs. Philip S. Hichborn, attended the bride and Herbert von Stumm was best man. The other wedding was that of Miss Caroline Bronson, daughter of Rear Admiral W. H. Bronson, Lieutenant Commander Thomas G. Hart, U. S. N. This also was a home wedding.

Carter Guilty of Manslaughter.

Aberdeen, Mass., April 6.—A jury here found John Carter, a wealthy merchant, guilty of manslaughter. Carter was charged with killing R. A. Wandel, a prominent physician, and the plea of the unwritten law was strongly advanced to save him from the effects of the crime.
